Justice for Anthony! My beloved baby brother is sitting in a padded cell at the Ridgeview Behavioral Hospital. He worked as a janitor at Otherworld Industries for over a year and loved his job. I noticed he began acting kind of funny and withdrawn last summer which was never like him. He also began to lose a lot of weight and became depressed. I told him to go to the doctor and they found out he had a brain tumor. He did chemo and they removed the tumor and he went into remission. We thought the company was supportive because they had insurance and gave him all the time off he needed. But then he gets back to work and something happens because next thing I know, he calls me saying he's been fired and I find him back home on the floor, shaking. He can't speak or care for himself. Doctors can't find any more tumors and we had to check him into a facility to take care of him. Something happened at Otherworld and I'm going to get to the bottom of it. Share with everyone you know! Get this on the news and let's bring #JUSTICEFORANTHONY
